Dear Colonel De Martino:

Thank you very much for sending me a copy of General Guido Beccalli's book entitled, "I Generali dell'Esercito Italiano Caduti nella Seconda Guerra Mondiale."

I find the book most interesting, and I would like to express my deep appreciation for your thoughtfulness and kindness in making it available to me.

Again, with thanks, and very best wishes,
believe me,

Sincerely,

Dear Colonel De Martino:

I can't begin to tell you how pleased I was when I read in the newspapers about your winning the Saber Championship of the United States in the competition at New York and I was more pleased today to get your letter telling me officially about your great victory.

Please accept my very heartiest personal congratulations and be assured that I am simply delighted with the outcome of the Saber competition. We are equally proud with you that this honor has come to a person that I am pleased to call "friend".

Again, with sincerest congratulations and best wishes, believe me,

Most cordially,
